How to use this guide

Each section is one business job. Read the section when you need that job done - this is a manual, not a novel. Every template works in free ChatGPT, Claude or Gemini.

1. Customer replies in your voice

Save this message template once, then reuse it every day:

You are my customer-service assistant for [business name], which sells [products] in [location]. Reply to customer messages in a warm, professional tone. Prices: [paste price list]. Delivery: [your policy]. If you don't know, say you'll check and I'll confirm.

Customer message: [paste it]

Paste each customer message at the bottom. Review before sending - you stay in charge.

2. A bookkeeping helper (not an accountant)

At close of business, tell the AI your day: 'Today I sold 3 bags maize @ $8, 2 deliveries $5 each, bought airtime $2, fuel $10.' Ask it to keep a running weekly table of money in, money out, and profit. Every Friday: 'Summarise my week and compare to last week.' For taxes and anything official, see a real accountant - this is your daily record-keeper, not a replacement.

3. Flyers and posters without a designer

Write the text for an A5 flyer for [offer]. I need:

- a 5-word headline
- 3 short benefit lines
- the call to action with my number [number]

Then describe a simple layout I can build in Canva free.

4. Stock lists that update themselves

Paste your stock list once, then each day tell it what sold and what arrived. Ask: 'Update the list, flag anything below 5 units, and list what to reorder.' Weekly: 'Which items moved fastest? What's been sitting for a month?'

5. Quotes and invoices in two minutes

COPY-PASTE THIS

Create a quotation from [business name] for [client].
Job: [describe]. Items and prices: [list]. Valid 14 days.
Payment: 50% deposit via EcoCash, balance on delivery.
Format it cleanly so I can paste into a document and send.

6. Your weekly 15-minute business review

- Paste the week's numbers and ask: what were my 3 best and worst sellers?
- Ask: what one thing should I push next week, and what one thing should I stop?
- Ask it to draft Monday's promotional WhatsApp status based on the answer.

Fifteen minutes, every Friday. Most owners never look at their numbers - this habit alone is worth the guide.
