The one formula behind every good image

THE FORMULA

[SUBJECT] + [STYLE] + [SETTING/BACKGROUND] + [LIGHTING] +
[COMPOSITION] + [WHAT TO AVOID]

Example: 'A bar of handmade soap with dried flowers, product photography style, on a slate surface with soft window light, close-up, centered, plain background. Avoid: text, hands, clutter.'

Free tools that work well: Bing Image Creator (bing.com/create), Ideogram (best when you need text in the image), Canva's AI tools (best when the image goes straight into a design), and Gemini. Start with Bing for general work, Ideogram for posters with words.

Job 1 - Logos

COPY-PASTE THIS

Minimalist flat logo for '[business name]', a [type] business.
Simple geometric [symbol] icon, [colour] on white background,
clean vector style, no photorealism, no text.

Generate 10+, shortlist 3, then regenerate variations of the best one. Ask for 'no text' and add your name yourself in Canva - AI text in logos is usually misspelled.

Job 2 - Event posters

Event poster background for a [type of event], [mood] mood, [colour scheme], bold graphic style, space left in the centre for text, no words in the image.

Always generate the background only, then add your event details in Canva. That's how you keep dates and prices editable.

Job 3 - Product shots

Photograph your real product with your phone near a window, then use the formula to generate matching background scenes, or describe your product precisely and generate a styled version. Be honest: if the generated image isn't your actual product, don't present it as a photo of it - use it as illustration, and photograph the real item for listings.

Job 4 - Social media graphics

Square illustration for a social media post about [topic], flat design style, [brand colours], simple, bold shapes, plenty of empty space top-left for a headline, no text.

Job 5 - Fixing bad results

- Too busy? Add: 'minimalist, plain background, single subject'.
- Wrong style? Name one: 'flat design' / 'watercolour' / 'product photography' / '3D render'.
- Weird hands/faces? Reframe the shot: 'close-up of the object, no people'.
- Garbled text? Remove all text from the prompt; add words later in Canva.
- Almost right? Change ONE variable and regenerate - don't rewrite the whole prompt.

Job 6 - A consistent brand look

Write your style sentence once and end every prompt with it: 'flat design, [your two colours], bold shapes, minimal'. Same style sentence = a feed that looks designed, not random.
